

BALD EAGLE

Haliaeetus leucocephalus

North America

The Bald Eagle's scientific name implies a sea eagle with a white head. In the past, the word "bald" meant "white," not hairless. The white feathers are not fully developed until the bird is 3-5 years old.