

CINNAMON TEAL

Anas cyanoptera

Western North America

The well-camouflaged female often places her nest under matted, dead stems of vegetation so it is completely concealed on all sides. She enters the nest through tunnels in the vegetation.