

HELMETED GUINEAFOWL

Numida meleagris

East Africa

Guineafowl often live in large flocks staying in shade during the heat of the day and spending the rest of the day foraging for food and water. They roost in trees and make loud, sustained calls.