

MOURNING DOVE

Zenaida macroura

North America

During nest-building, the female stays at the nest and the male collects sticks. He stands on her back to give her the nest material, and she takes it and weaves it into the nest.