

TRUMPETER SWAN

Cygnus buccinator

Northern North America

The Trumpeter Swan was hunted for its feathers from the 1600s-1800s and was near extinction in the 1930s. Its largest flight feathers made what were considered to be the best quality quill pens.