

WHITE-CHEEKED TURACO

Tauraco leucotis

Central and Southern Africa

Turacos are the only birds with true red and green pigmentations. Usually the color you see on a bird is just a reflection from the feather structure. Turaco's have true red and green pigments containing copper. In fact, if you stirred a glass of water with a red turaco feather, the water would turn pink!